

A DAY FOR ELA

ARIZONA ENGLISH TEACHERS ASSOCIATION STATEWIDE CONFERENCE

Invitation

Whether you are a curriculum specialist, administrator, or English language arts teacher in elementary, middle, or high school, we invite you to attend our annual Arizona English Teachers Association Statewide Conference.

When: Saturday, September 26, 2015

Where: ASU Polytechnic Campus
Mesa, Arizona

Who: Those who love literacy!

More information can be found at

FROM OUR PRESIDENT, DR. ANGELA HANSEN

Our goal is to engage you in enthusiastic discussions, to provide you with tools and materials you can use in your teaching, and to address what you need as English teachers in 2015. Come network, learn, and share your knowledge about everything ELA at this jam-packed, knock-your-socks-off, one-day celebration of you: English language arts teachers, student teachers, curriculum specialists, librarians, university faculty, and anyone who loves literacy!

Conference Theme: Writing for Right

In an ever-shifting world of mandates, testing, and new initiatives, it is easy to lose sight of what matters most: students and those who teach them. Because of this, our organizational focus is on supporting English language arts educators as they strive to implement inspired, standards-based instructional practices in their ELA classrooms.

With the help of our keynote presenter, Chris Crutcher, we will explore what it means for our students and for ourselves to write—and read, think, and act—for right. It will be an amazing day!
