Chekhov and Russian Drama
Spring 2015

Among Russian playwrights, Anton Pavlovich Chekhov (1860-1904) has a worldwide reputation, and throughout the United States, there are always productions of his four most famous plays—The Seagull (1896), Uncle Vanya (1899), Three Sisters (1901), and The Cherry Orchard (1903). Russian drama can be divided into before and after Chekhov, and his collaboration with the director Konstantin Stanislavski and the Moscow Arts Theater. But Russian drama, though young, was already well established before the turn of the century. This course surveys the beginnings of Russian drama in the eighteenth century, with Catherine the Great and Denis Fonvizin, includes highlights by such well-known writers as Pushkin, Gogol, Turgenev, and Tolstoy, a gem by Griboedov that is quoted by all Russians today, and a handful of plays by Ostrovsky, who wrote 49 plays and singlehandedly established Russian national theater. We examine the four major plays of Chekhov, their translations, performance history, and videos of performances. The course concludes with a brief survey of twentieth-century plays, including a couple by one of Russia’s best writers today, Lyudmila Petrushevskaia. Students are encouraged to read the texts in Russian, though the class will be in English. There will be opportunities to perform in class.

Goals
Students should learn the following information and skills:

1. Chekhov’s life and major plays, and some of the scholarship and films about him and his plays.
2. An understanding of important issues and debates in Russian nineteenth-century theater in the context of Russian literary history and history more generally.
3. How to identify and write about key issues in plays by Chekhov and others in relation to Russian theater.
Requirements (% of final grade)
1. This course requires 8 two- to three-page (500-750 words) papers in response to study questions for the plays of your choice, due the next Monday after we cover the play. You must write 2 papers per month (see deadlines below). All papers can be revised for a better grade and I will average the grades; revisions are due the following Monday. Late papers will not be accepted. Please submit paper by email to me by 11.59 pm on Monday. Please include the word count. Papers can be creative or traditional expository prose, but whatever format and voice you choose, there must be an argument. (10% each, 80% of total grade)
2. Performance worksheets for the four major play by Chekhov comparing difference performances on DVD and YouTube of sections of Chekhov plays. Due Monday of the week following our discussion of the play in class: The Seagull (Mar 16), Uncle Vanya (Mar 23), Three Sisters (Mar 30), The Cherry Orchard (Apr 6) (10%)
3. Class participation (10%). Please come to class prepared with your book, prepared to participate in reading and discussion. Participation includes listening carefully to classmates.

Attendance
Attendance is mandatory and worth half your participation grade (5%). I take formal attendance. Let me know ahead of time if you cannot come to class for health reasons. After 4 unexcused absences, your grade for the course will drop a half grade (3 points), and a half grade for each additional absence. If you miss 8 classes (one month), you will have missed 25% of the course and I can no longer give you a grade, which means you will need to drop the course or I will need to fail you. You can keep track of how many classes you have missed on Blackboard in your grade center.

Cell Phones and Computers: Before class begins turn off cell phones. You may use computers at my discretion, for taking notes and reading materials on Blackboard, and not for surfing the web or checking email. If you do not follow these rules, you will be marked absent for that class.

Plagiarism
Plagiarism is bad scholarship with serious consequences. Do not do it. It is the equivalent of being caught doping in athletics: an attempt to gain a competitive advantage by illegal means. Here are some ASU guidelines that you will have covered or will cover in ASU101:

We will review proper ways to acknowledge ideas and quotations by others before you write your first paper. Papers for this course do NOT require research, just that you read the texts carefully, think about how they work and what that means, and articulate YOUR ideas clearly.

Guidelines for Papers

Papers must be double-spaced and responsive to all aspects of the assignment, including length (provide a word count on the first page), and prepared according to the Modern Language Association or Chicago Manual of Style. Make sure you document every reference--in quotation or paraphrase--including page numbers, using the in-text format: “blah blah blah” (304). Feel free to write in the first person. Most important, a paper is an argument: no argument, no paper. Support your thesis with evidence. Revised papers should be more than a few changes, a word here or there and a sentence more or less, but should engage with my comments. Please read the handouts on writing and editing on BB.

Paper grades

An “A” paper demonstrates that the writer has not only mastered the concepts of the course, but also has applied them in an imaginative and incisive way. The paper shows a command of language that allows the writer to express worthwhile ideas or perceptions clearly, effectively, in detail and with virtually no mechanical errors. There is grace to the sentence structure, which is clear and varied throughout. The paper consistently includes adequate documentation. The “A” grade is reserved for exceptional papers; “A-” papers tend to be exceptional in part but marred by one or two problems.

A “B” paper demonstrates that the writer has understood the concepts of the course, and has applied them with some originality. The paper shows the writer can organize a coherent essay with few mechanical errors. The thesis statement is clear and is responsive to the assigned topic. It is supported with strong, logical argumentation and use of evidence. The paper for the most part includes adequate documentation.

A “C” paper demonstrates that the writer has understood most of the concepts of the course, but needs to pay more attention to detail in reading or writing. Thesis statement and topic sentences are weak, and documentation is erratic.

A “D” paper demonstrates that the writer has only a minimal understanding of the concepts of the course. Significant gaps in the writer's comprehension indicate the need for more study. Moreover, the writer's basic compositional skills are below satisfactory for university work. Documentation is unsatisfactory.

An “F” paper demonstrates that the writer has little, if any, understanding of the concepts of the course. Because of the writer's lack of skill or concern, the work includes gross errors as well as a conspicuous lack of content. Documentation is negligible. The paper may also fail to address parts of the assignment.

A paper may combine different levels of work. In that case, the grade will depend on the paper's overall demonstration of knowledge of the material and of writing skills.
Emails
You should regard all writing for this class as professional writing, including your emails to me. You can address me as “Dear Professor Hoogenboom,” and you should put your name at the end. My emails to you will have this format too.
